

I am very, very alarmed at the imminent possibility that a small handful of media giants will be legally entitled to take over stations, TV and radio, throughout the country. Whatever happened to regulations against monopolies? I believe free speech is the corner stone of a thriving deomocracy. If this happens only a few voices will be heard, which I suppose is exactly what the administration wants. Our democratic republic is gradually being destroyed. Please don't let this happen. M. Albert